About Our School

Walk into any classroom at ESF Abacus International Kindergarten and you will hear the sound of laughter, the sound of excitement and, above all, the sound of young children fully engaged in the first part of their educational journey.

At Abacus, we follow the International Baccalaureate (IB) curriculum, and students use the Primary Years Programme (PYP). PYP is also the basis for learning in our ESF primary schools, and this coherence and consistency is incredibly important for young children.

Abacus offers Bilingual and English streams in both K1 and K2. In our Bilingual programme, children receive instruction throughout all areas of the curriculum in both languages. We work individually with the children in classes dedicated to English language and Chinese language, to ensure their differing ability levels are catered for. In our other stream, the children's primary learning language is English, however, the children are introduced to Chinese vocabulary and learn about Chinese customs and festivals through games, songs and stories. Whichever stream you choose, know that at Abacus, your child will spend their day with incredible staff. Every single one of them, whether they are part of our English Language or Chinese team, will work to really get to know your child.

Our teachers are skilled at working with every child as an individual, looking at where they are in their learning and then providing them with support and encouragement to move to the next steps, whatever these may be. We develop children's mathematical, science and literacy skills through play, and we also offer them opportunities to explore the arts through painting, drawing and music.

At Abacus, our welcoming and friendly environment is the perfect place for your child to receive the best education and care to begin their development into a responsible global citizen.

Meet the Principal

Frances is an exceptional educator, with almost 20 years of experience with ESF. A strong advocate for outdoor education, Frances lives and breathes this concept herself. A keen sailor, when not in school, Frances can often be seen in her boat out on the South China Sea.
